SS - Super Sweet Gene/Sh2

Sh2 - Supersweet Hybrids

TSW- Triple Sweet Hybrid/SS

SE - Sugary Enhanced

SU - Normal Sugary

Standard sweet corn varieties contain a sugary gene (SU), that brings out the sweetness and creamy texture.

Su's are best suited for being picked, husked and eaten within a very short time

Sugary enhanced hybrids have the sugary enhancer gene (SE). SE gene raises the sugar content above SU's

SU's still retain the tenderness and creamy texture and are outstanding

SE's are the choice for home gardeners that contains the qualities of SU's and Sh2

SE require no isolation from standard SU, better results can happen if isolation distance is maintained.

SuperSweet hybrids have the shrunken-2 gene(Sh2). Sh2 have higher sugar content then the standard SU

SuperSweet has a lack of creamy texture that is not noticeable in fresh corn but it effects the quality of frozen and canned corn

Sh2 are good for sweet corn that must be shipped, and mechanically harvested.

Sh2 need be isolated from any other type of corn: 500 feet or more especially downwind

All sweet corns should be isolated from field corn

Sweet corn requires warm soil for germination, 55 degrees for standard sweet corn varieties and 65 degrees for super sweet

Planting can be made as late as first week in July--note maturity dates
